20:20 Project and PRIMARY UMBRELLA GROUP

TOWARDS A BALANCED AND BROADLY-BASED CURRICULUM

Monday 8 March 2021, 4.15pm – 6.45pm

Venue: ON-LINE

The Conference, embracing a theme which has always been central to debate about children's entitlements, has been highlighted by OfSTED as critical in curriculum development and its central importance has been further accentuated by the pressures under which primary schools are working in the post-lockdown phase as they prioritise what is perceived as essential in educational recovery. It will therefore be of interest to school leaders, classroom practitioners and governors alike, with the presentations providing a window on innovation and quality in action in the primary school.

KEYNOTE SCHILLER LECTURE: DR. TONY EAUDE — a former Oxfordshire Primary Head, and author of several seminal texts in the area of primary education: Why a balanced and broad curriculum matters – particularly for young children and those from disadvantaged backgrounds

Presentations on the curriculum in action:

Naheeda Maharasingham, Head of Rathfern Primary School, Lewisham, on Social Action in the Primary School

Tina Farr, Head of St Ebbe's Primary School, Oxford on Developing a Curriculum, as Rich in Humanity as in Knowledge

Alison Hales, Senior Lecturer in Education, University of Greenwich, on Exploring History through the Local

Rachel Ford, Head of Bannockburn Primary School, Royal Borough of Greenwich, on Beyond Teaching: Experiencing the Humanities

CONFERENCE FEE: £10 per individual or £50 for 5 or more staff members from a school. Free for students.

Applicants are invited to contact Robert Young, NAPE General Secretary, for further information about registration for the event (rmyoung1942@yahoo.co.uk).
